NCNA MISSION

The NCNA...

Brings together those with an interest in numismatics, whether collector, dealer or club, and provides each with a forum to share their knowledge of and enthusiasm for coins, currency and related material...

Promotes numismatics through education of collectors and non-collectors alike, regardless of age or experience level...

Supports and expands the numismatic interests of its members through its quarterly publication – the NCNA Journal – its web site, its guest speaker program and its sponsorship of educational forums at its Convention...

Nurtures and helps develop the collecting interests of Junior members through specialized educational outreach...

Encourages membership in local coin clubs throughout North Carolina to help build strong local numismatic communities...

Promotes good citizenship within the North Carolina numismatic community by recognizing the outstanding contributions of local numismatists via its annual awards program.

ABOUT THE NCNA

The North Carolina Numismatic Association (NCNA) traces its roots to 1959 and the formation of the North Carolina Coin Clubs Association. The founding members sought to create an organization that could promote the numismatic hobby in North Carolina by enabling an open exchange of knowledge among established local coin clubs, helping to form new clubs where needed and offering membership to individuals with an interest in numismatics but without access to a local club.

Today, nearly 60 years later, the NCNA continues this mission by bringing together more than two dozen member clubs and hundreds of individual members.

Our membership is a mix of collectors and dealers, as well as those with an interest in art, history and/ or finance without active collecting pursuits. Our members include those new to the hobby and those who have collected for decades; those collecting coins from circulation to those seeking true numismatic rarities; and those with a general interest in coins or currency to those pursuing highly-specialized fields.

The NCNA is truly an organization for all! Come join us!
